"The ram-head works against a fixed toothed face, and, if there were nothing more, stones put into the hopper would be simply crushed between the two-much as in Blake's machine. But here the similarity ends. It has been found that what we may best term a chewing action materially facilitates the breakage of the stones, and this chewing action is obtained by mounting the ram-head and its thrust-bar or handle on an eccentric close to the head. The motion attained by the use of this eccentric produces the precise effect required very efficiently. All the arrangemonts are very simple and mechanical and the actione appears to have nothing about it to get out of order. We were much pleased with it."

PRIVATE SECRETARY'S OFFICE, 29th May, 1872.

AM directed by the Lieutenant-Governor to notify all these whom it may concern, that, in pursuance of the requirements of "The Civil Officers Securities Act, 1872," and in accordance with the suggestions contained in the subjoined copy of a report of atoministics of Cauncil, which Keport was approved by His Excellency of the 20th instant, his Excellency requires the Officers holding the coveral Offices mentioned in the said copy of Report, to furnish, within three months from this date, good and sufficient security in the amounts set opposite the titles of their respective Offices in the said copy of Report, for the due performance of the trust reposed in them respectively, and for the due accounting for of public money intrusted to them.

Althur G. J. PINDER, Private Secretary.

Corr of a Report of a Committee of the Honorable the Executive Commit, approved by His Excellency the Lieutenan Governor on the 20th day of May, 1872. fice Cosnell, approved by His Excellency the Lieulenant-Governor on the 20th day of May, 1872.

The Committee have considered the Report of the Provincial Secretary, dated 22nd May, 1872, on the "Livil Officers Securities Act, 1872."

This Act deals wish three classes of Government employed luthis Province:

1st. Persons appointed prior to the passing of the Act to any Civil Office, or employment, or commission in any Public Department of the tovernment;

2nd. Persons appointed prior to the passing of the Act to any Office or employment of public trust;

2nd. Fersons appointed prior to the passing of the Act to offices wherein they might le concerned in the collection, receipt, disbursement, or expenditure of any public money for or under Government;

Other Sections of the act extend the provisions as to past appointment to appointments made after the passing of the Act; consequently, in recommending You, Excellency to require security from the Officers, the names of whose Mice are under-written, it will not be necessary to distinguish between those who received their appointments prior to the passing of the Act; and those who entered the Service subsequently.

Many Servants of the dovernment are never officially concerned in the collection, receipt, disbursement, or expenditure or money,—cx.ge. ordinary constables,—and yet in consequence of homms office of public trust, it is apprehended they may be required to give security for the due performance of the trust reposed in them.

In the opinion of the tomaint office of public trust, it is apprehended they may be required to give security for the due performance of the trust reposed in them.

National Arbitration.

If the proceedings connected with the first attempt of two great powers, viz England and Americs, to settle national difficulties by arbitration, be a fair sample of what has to be generally encountered, we opine such mode of proceding in the future will present few attractions, and if possible will be avoided. The congratulations that heralded in this new way of settling national quarrels, are now shown to have been premature, and the titles of nobility bestowed for distinguished services ren dered in connection with it, as fit subject oaly for ridicule. National Arbitration may carry with it the advantages of being a cheap and humane solution for disputes. but it is quite clear from what has taken place in the negotiations of the respective governments of England and America, that it brings with it many unpleasant concomitants. If the American Government had purposely designed to make such mode for settlement unpopular in the future, no better mode of action could have been adopted than the course pursued. It must be admitted (whether deserved or not we leave an open ques-tion) that the spectacle that England has exhibited during these negotiations, has been painfully bumiliating, she has appeared as if begging for favors, has been made to look cheap in the eyes of the world, and even these indignities would have been exceeded, but for the firm and determined attitude of the two houses of Parliament. The expectations and disappointments connected with this Treaty from Morley to Reverdy Johnson, down to Schenck, have been of the most tanta lising character, the subsequent demands for indirect damages, the correspondence, the dodging, the delays, offensive. The latest information possessed with regard to these "Alabama Claims" is that England not having agreed to the reply of America in answer to England's Supple mentary Article, has suggested that the time fixed for proceeding to trial be postponed. To this proposition America has made no reply; both powers in the mean-time have handed in their respective documents to the Arbitrators, and here at present the matter rests. The experience England has gained in this her first attempt to settle national troubles by peaceful Arbitration will teach her in al Buc's cases for the future, to appear not to be too anxious nor profuse with expressions of amity, and that in any future entanglement with the United States. it will be well to avoid the time when a Presidential election is pending.

Further of the Debate in the Commons on the Judiciary.

[OTTAWA CITIZEN'S REPORT]

OTTAWA, June 1 .- Hon. Sir J. A. Macdonald moved that the House go into Committee to consider a resolution to provide for Judges and strpendiary magistrates in Quebec, Nova

Mr. Blake objected strongly to some propositions of the resolutions, including the number, and large salaries of judges for British Columbia. He asked why it, with 10,000 inhabitants, should have nine judges and stipendiary magistrates, while other Provinces had to pay their own. These provisions were not contemplated by the Union

Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald explained that the Manitoba judges were expected to officiate outside the Province, the salaries of British Columbia judges were fixed by Imperial action, the present officers having been appointed by Great Britain. The whole question of salaries to judges would likely be considered by the next Parliament. Stipendiary magistrates acted as county judges, and as commissioners in certain cases. They were also Imperial appointments.

Mr. DeCosmos stated that those magistrates acted as gold commissioners, and he com-plained that British Columbia regarded as a hereafter. grievance the fact that they were not profes-

Mr. Blake—Then we pay the salaries of the gold commissioners of British Columbia. Hon. Sir John A Macdonald said they acted as Stipendiary Magistrates, Gold Commis sioners and County Court Judges. We might dispense with them, but on condition of giving them hereafter two-thirds of their present

Mr. Mills remarked that for 11,000 people there were three Supreme Court Judges and six County Court Judges. Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald said we were bound, by the Union Act, to meet these ex-Hon, Mr. Anglin commented upon the expensiveness of judicial systems for Manitoba and British Columbia, and the creation of an elaborate, costly County Court system in The House then went into Committee.

Mr. Blake denounced, as unnecessary, the expenditure for judges in the two Northwest provinces. Each was served by one judge before the Union, but now they required three, probably in obedience to suggestions from the Canadian Government. The Manitoba Legislature added a judge to the one previously in office, but our Government went further, giving two. In British Columbia, Stipendary Magistrates were County Court Judges; if so, let them be so called. Before Confederation, Superior Judges cost $3,500; now they would cost $10,000. If those magistrates were to be called County Court Judges, that their cost might be thrown on the Dominion, let the same system be extended to other provinces. We were called upon to pay for those provincial services which British Columbia should herself bear. He argued that this system involved a system of administration of justice, and a most complicated and difficult question, as to federal and civil jurisdiction. This practice of paying judges appointed by others encouraged extravagance which could not take place were the appointers the payers. If the Legislature of British Columbia created county courts, and this Government assented to them and the judges, the people of British Columbia were entitled to gentlemen of the Bar as judges.

Mr. Smith (Selkirk) said before the union the people of Manitoba were concentrated, and few Judges were required. Now, even within the province, many settlers were living sixty miles apart. Waat was sufficient then would be inadequate now. Four thou sand dollars was very small for a Judge, considering the cost of living. Three Judges would not be too much, seeing they were to get as Stipendiary Magistrates. Act as Stipendiary Magistrates. A Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald said these British Columbia salaries had to be paid in good faith, the officers being of Imperial origin. They had vested rights. In the resolutions passed now, the discussion could continue on the bill to be introduced.

Mr. DeCosmos complained that $3,200 a year was insufficient for Judges of Batish Columbiar They could not live respectably For San Francisco Direct.

on it (Laughter).
Hon. Mr. Holton and Mr. Blake ridiculed the notion of its inadequacy.

The Committee rose and reported the reso lution' which were read a second and third time. Bills tounded on the first and second were read a third time.

The Committee then took up the Inter-being that the clauses as amended and adopted should form a part of the Canadian Pacific Company's Bill. The second, third, fourth and fifth clauses give the Company power to constitute a line of railway from a point at or near Lake Nipissing to the waters of the Pacific Ocean, with power to build branches in British Columbia, Manitoba, and to Lake Superior, and to bridge the St. Mary River at tion of Superintendent of Indian Affairs. the Sault provided that the route shall be fixed by the Company and approved by the Gov-ernor in Council; and authorize the Company to take such lands and material along the line was received and read :-Of Frederick Wadof the railway as may be useful or necessary dington, of No. 14, Rue Duphot, Paris, in the for the construction of the same, and to own and operate steam vessels and build wharves and harbors. These clauses were adopted moter of a projected Railway from Ottawa to with several amendments. On clause six, the Pacific, on behalf of himself, his Co-heirs which exempts the Company from taxation and representatives; praying that in any Act on the permanent way, rolling stock property that may be passed for the construction of a and earnings in any province under any law or ordinance, or by law of any Provincial and services of the late Alfred Waddington, municipality or local authority to any greater as projector and promoter of the said Railextent than if it were the property of the Dominion, it was remarked that the Parliament of Canada had power to confer such ex-

Mr. Abbott did not think they had any right to grant it in the form in which it then was; but he thought there was a way in which it might be granted. This road ran to a great extent through a country not yet erected into Provinces, a country as yet for the most part unsettled; and he could theretore see no objection to apply it to these new

Mr. Macdongall thought that it was dangerous to give municipalities the power of imposing unlimited taxation upon railway composing unlimited taxation upon railway companies. They all knew how very auxious the Hudson Bay Company were to protect their property from municipal taxation, If the question were left open, it would be found impossible to negotiate bonds in the English market where they were sensitive as to municipal taxation. Although he did not think such an exemption should be made in respect to the old settled Provinces, he could see no objection to apply it to Provinces not yet

Sir George Cartier said they might do it in Mr. Wood said that if no exemptions were made, a whole Province might tax a railway like this out of existence, and he thought it was but fair and right that they should secure this railway when it was built, if it ever was to be built at all, from taxation in the territories not yet erected into Provinces.

Mr. Abbott here moved an amendment in the sense alluded to above. culty. He saw no difficulty in exempting the company f.om Dominion taxation, but be did see great difficulty in exempting it from Proial taxation either now or in the future. If this railway company came into existence it would live forever and be subject to taxation for ever. It would run through the Provinces of Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia, in all of which Provinces it would be subjected to taxation. Why, then, should the new Provinces to be carved out of this territory be put in a different position for all time to come from the Provinces already created ? Mr. Abbott thought that there was this difference. These territories were now unsettled, and if they were ever to become setand at such time as they may direct—under

NEW YORK, June 25-A Washington dispatch states that Spanish war vessels have been instructed to seize and sink the American steamers Virginius and Edgar Stewart, wherever found, outside neutral ports. The Virginius, as appears by a letter received here from the captain yesterday, was at Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, in the latter part of May. Two Spanish war vessels were in port and their officers were enraged at the refusal of the Venezuelan Government to deliver the Virginius up to them, and threatened to cut her out, whereupon the Venezuelans turned the guns of the fort upon the Spanish v ssels and the latter quitted the place. The Virginius is also out of coal.

The Washington Treaty Debate in the Dominion Senate.

SENATOR W. J. MACDONALD'S SPEECH.

(From the Ottawa Times.) Hon. W. J. Macdonald, (B. C.) -I consider myself in a position to look at the question now before this House free from all local feeling, and free from all party spirit, not having been hitherto mixed up with the politics of this country. The causes which led to the negotiations of the Treaty are so well known, and have just been reviewed by the Postmaster General. I need not therefore repeat them. If by the Treaty of Washington our territorial rights have been invaded was this done solely in the interests of England. Was this done to patch a peace with America with a view to future complication in Europe and the balance of power being destroyed and new alliance formed? Such is not the casethis Treaty is as much in the interests of Canada as that of England, and were she not jea ous of our rights what d fference could it make to her who fished in our waters. It must be evident to all that there exists a strong feeling in England that this country should have peace and tranquility and not be contending for her rights with a foreign State, rights which she has always helped us to maintain and will still do so. The people of this country cannot, and do not wish to any time lead us into serious complication Saturday, June 29th, with a powerful neighbor and one branch of the Parliament of this country has sustained this view of the question, and deemed it exnot all that could be desired. History shows The whole of his well known collection of that Canadians have always held their ground against the United States, yet we are a commercial and not a military people, and unsettled international questions disturb our GENEVA, June 24-Dispatches received industries; unsettle the public mind periodi-

I feel that they have the best interests of the country at heart, the country at heart at wards visited Adams in company with Caleb and I am bound to give my support to a Cushing, in reference to the summons of Government that has ruled the country so well during the last five years, as shown by the great prosperity of the country. If under the operation of this Treaty the balance Villa this afternoon, and remained in session of trade should appear against us, a money until 5 o'clock. They then adjourned to meet payment is provided for equal to such balon Tuesday next. The business of the Tri-bunal, as at previous meetings, was conducts scorned? What does all commerce and trade ance. Why should a money payment be accorned? What does all commerce and trade most reliable. Orders left at P. Bocion's Soda Fact sty lead to but money? But it appears to me on Johnson street, will be promptly attended to jet 2m. that there is so much sentiment mixed up with the whole question that sight is lost o the reality. The honor of the country cannot be sudied by the negotiations in this matter, as we are left free to reject the Treaty. We re free in this as in all things, yet there are certain ties which link us to the mother Sir George Cartier presented the report of country which it would not be politic to sever persons belonging to Puget Sound who of the Committee on Railways, submitting or even to tighten at this time, and if herearrived in the California. A monarchy we cannot have, and a republic is the only thing the Bill to provide for taking the poll at Par-liamentary elections by ballot. government I do not wish to live in this country. Imagine this country a republic. How insignificant we would be, hemmed in on the one side by an enormous country and on the other by the North Pole, rent asunder by political factions and a continual struggle or power, without status as a nation, and without weight in the council of nations, As we are now I believe the people of Canada are the most free, the most prosperous and the most happy people on the face of the globe. The very country in which we live conduces to vigor, industry and self reliance. We are well governed, the laws faithfully abministered, and civil and religious liberty secured to all. Therefore if we are true to ourselves, if we are true to this New Dominio let us enter into closer bonds with the Mother us to be wronged or oppress d; and if we are called upon to give up in ber interest a porto inheritance which she herself has given us. Before sitting down 1 must say that all English statesmen however great their tilent, nowever carefully they may have looked to Imperial interests, yet in dealing with the United States in the matter of colonial boun

SHEPARD RUBBER BOOTS

(Patented December 1st. 1868.) Leather (outside) Soles. Iron Clad Heels. The usual way of nailing Leather Foles on Rubber Boots makes holes quite through the Soles, which are sure to leak. These I cather Soles are factered by auchors embedded in the Rubber when the oots are made, but do not go through the Soles. The Boots are therefore perfectly Weter-Proof, and the Soles can be mead d without making them leak. They will wear three or four times longer than the ordinary double sole Rubber Boots.
